2018 Highlights

#CdT33

Circuito de Tendencias 33 gave information and counseling for clothing and textile companies to develop their collections and innovate in products and business strategies.

Lean Manufacturing workshop

For the first time in the Argentine textile industry, it was shown live a management system that leads to an efficient and competitive production.

Discussion panels

Throughout the event, outstanding clothing business professionals and economists discussed on the present and the future of the Argentine textile industry.

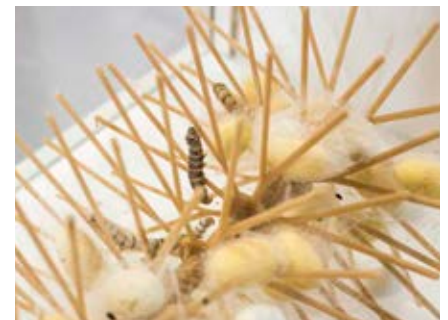

Design Point

A space devoted to emerging national textile designers, in which they exhibited their designs and the tools they use in the creation process.

Seda Project:

An initiative that seeks to spread sericulture in Latin America, through a sustainable approach and with local value added, as an economic way out for low income producers and entrepreneurs. In the exhibition, they showed the different stages of worm production and the products that can be done with the cocoon filaments.
